

Council denies zone change citing inadequate sewers

By Lynne Locke

Upland City Council members Feb. 22 refused to allow a residential zone change for 10.5 acres southeast of Benson Avenue and Foothill Boulevard because of inadequate sewer system lines in the area.

The council unanimously rejected arguments that the city should recognize and deal with the problem of inadequate sewers rather than penalizing the developer of one small parcel.

City Engineer Fred Blanchard told the council the sewer system for the area is "fairly marginal" and noted that there is already "some what of a sewer problem."

Careful development of the area would "mitigate" the problem of sewer capacity, he said noting that the city could "get by without expanding the sewers" if heavy water users are not allowed to locate in the area.

Controlling sewage in the area would depend upon the city maintaining the present industrial and commercial zoning. Blanchard commented that a multi-family development would contribute "many times" more sewage than the commercial zoning existing on the 10-acre parcel.

Jim Christenson, representing property owner George Brannon, said the proposed multi-family development would not cause a sewage problem since sewer lines are available to handle all sewage which would be generated by the project.

Instead, he said, the actual problem will come in the future and will come whether the property remains commercial or is developed into residential uses.

Christenson laid responsibility for the problem on past city councils which did not "live up to the master plan of sewers" calling for a 10-inch line on Arrow Highway and said the problem could not exist if the master plan had been followed.

The city "will have to deal with the problem regardless of the zone change," he said and noted the multi-family project would not significantly affect the sewage problem since it involves only 10 acres of a total of 400 acres which will eventually hook up to the sewer lines.

"A massive sewer investment" will be necessary for the entire 400 acres to develop, Christenson said and urged the council to approve the multi-family project and institute a "new facilities fee" to raise the funds to install necessary sewer lines.

In voting against the residential zoning, Mayor pro tem John McCarthy commented, "I for one am not going to vote for anything that will impact sewers in this area."

"I don't see how we can just go ahead and approve a zone change when we have not solved the sewer overload in the area," Councilwoman Ina Petokas said.

Although sewer problems apparently were the deciding factor in the council vote, increased number of multi-family development has been a council concern for several years with Mayor George Gibson and Councilman Bill Bottin especially vocal in opposing further apartment zoning.

Mrs. Petokas noted the impact of "constantly eroding" the area from commercial to multi-family development without a comprehensive study and had expressed concern over effects on sewers when a nearby area was rezoned.

The Planning Commission had recommended approval of the multi-family zoning noting the abundance of commercial zoning on Foothill Boulevard and the lessened density planned for the project.

Planning Director Bill Young said the Planning Commission had "no serious opposition" to the zone change "if the sewer problem could be mitigated."

The proposed development would have 15-16 units per acre rather than the 21 units per acre allowed under the multi-family zoning.

Young said the Planning Commission had recommended approval of the project with the stipulation that an environmental impact report (EIR) be completed to indicate ways to lessen the sewer problem.

McCarthy and Councilman Hal Bailin opposed requiring a costly EIR for the project since the "we already know the problem."

Requiring the EIR became hypothetical when the council denied the zone change.

In other action Feb. 22 the council:

- Approved a conditional-use permit to construct Coco's, a full-service restaurant, in the Uptown and Country Shopping Center at the southwest corner of Euclid Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

- Approved a zone change from agricultural to single-family residential (10,000-square-foot minimum lot sizes) for 10 acres southwest of 22nd Street and San Antonio Avenue.

- Set a public hearing April 4 to consider legalizing charity bingo in the City of Upland.

- Requested the city staff to seek estimates for sealing the roof of the 17th Street reservoir.

Upland School District

Four seek three school board seats

By Lynne Locke

Four candidates are competing for three seats on the Upland School District Board of Trustees. Candidates include incumbent William Hutson. Others are Dina Ross Hunter, Robert W. Ellis and Dale Owen Andersen.

All four candidates were invited to submit statements about their stands on educational issues. Dina Ross Hunter did not respond.

William Hutson

Hutson listed achievement in basic skills, individualized instruction, and evaluation of administrators and board members as the most important issues for the district.

Student achievement in basic skills of reading comprehension, mathematics and written and oral communication is necessary to prepare students for advanced studies and practical life experience, he said.

Hutson said the district should continue testing and evaluation programs with "strict accountability," especially with administrative staff, to ensure student progress.

To provide individualized instruction, he said the district should develop a strong volunteer tutoring program "using the talents of older students as well as parents."

Hutson noted the need for evaluation of the district "management team" and school board members and commented, "It is not fair to impose an evaluation program on teachers without imposing a goals-oriented evaluation system which includes the superintendent, principals, and Board of Trustees members."

He has served on the Upland School District Board of Trustees two years and represents the district on the Upland Parks and Recreation Committee. Hutson is a federal probation and parole officer serving the West End.

Dale Andersen

Andersen listed financial responsibility, school crowding and employer-employee relations as important issues for the district.

The need for all children to receive "a good basic education is essential," he said and added, "With the high cost of education today, it becomes increasingly important that what funds are available be expended wisely."

Andersen said that with his

Nine in race for two seats on Chaffey College board

By Don Ham
Editor

Nine persons are running for two positions on the Chaffey College District Board of Education.

Candidates include John L. Botkin of Cucamonga, Kenneth C. Ketter of Alta Loma, Merle K. Cox (incumbent) and Georgia W. Mellon (incumbent) of Upland and William H. Thompson of Fontana.

Other candidates include Charles F. Rector and Dale D. Borgen of Corona and Sharon Jeffers and William A. Russell of Norco.

All nine candidates were invited to submit statements about their stands on education issues. Rector did not respond.

Dale Borgen

Borgen listed the most important educational issue as communication.

"Chaffey College is one of many fine educational institutions in this area, but how many people realize the value of a quality education?" he questioned.

"I live in Corona, and the only way I heard about Chaffey College was through word of mouth. I believe that we will have to find a better method to 'get out the word' on the need for an education to all potential students, young and old."

"Once we have the attention of the people, we can focus our attention on providing a quality education for all," he noted.

Borgen, a business representative for a major utility, is working towards a master's degree in human resources management from Pepperdine University.

"I have been a student for many years and found that I had to work a full-time job during these years just to live," he said. "I believe I can relate to many of the students and their problems in achieving an education. I would like to be involved in setting up programs that are made for the student, not the administration."

Georgia Mellon

Mrs. Mellon said the major issues facing the district area providing responsible leadership to taxpayers, meeting the educational needs of citizens, and offering classes with good teachers in convenient locations.

"The board should provide responsible leadership to our taxpayers for setting realistic educational goals and priorities in the face of changing and dwindling finances and declining enrollments," she said.

"The educational and employment training needs of the citizens of our district must be provided for in as broad a spectrum as possible. Class offerings must be provided with top quality, well-paid instructors and in geographic locations convenient to the students."

"All of these things must be accomplished in an environment of mutual trust and confidence, both between the college and the taxpayer and between the board, the administration and staff within the college," Mrs. Mellon said.

"This is not an easy task or one that can be accomplished by casual participation," she noted. "I have the time and I have demonstrated my personal commitment to Chaffey College by my past involvement."

Mrs. Mellon has been a member of the Chaffey College Board of Education for 17 years, serving as president for six terms and currently serving as board vice president.

She serves on the San Bernardino County School Boards Association Executive Committee, the college Regional Adult and Vocational Education Council, the organization of California Community College Trustees, and the California School Boards

Association Delegate Assembly.

John L. Botkin

Botkin listed providing equal educational opportunity for everyone, vocational and career programs, and keeping residents and staff informed of new laws regarding education as the most important educational issues.

"As a community, we have the responsibility to see that all people desiring to better themselves have the facilities available to them," Botkin said, adding that educational opportunities should "be focused" on the physically handicapped as well as minority members.

"I firmly believe that we should not only encourage our physically handicapped to enhance their education but also assist them with various career/educational programs so as to equip them with vocational skills and opportunities," he noted.

Botkin said the district should evaluate the validity of its vocational and career programs. "We have the obligation to evaluate and re-evaluate the specialized needs of our community as well as the surrounding communities and inform our students of those needs," he added.

Botkin said the district has a duty to keep students, staff and residents informed of the latest federal and state education decisions, such as the Serrano-Priest decision which deals with the tax structure for school financing.

Botkin cited his experience with the Claremont School District as qualifying him for the job. He served on salary and labor negotiation committees, attended minority awareness seminars, and taught orthopedically handicapped students.

Kenneth Ketter

Ketter said his major concerns, which affect the educational efficiency of the community, are declining enrollment, proliferation of administrative costs, and the oversight responsibility of a board member.

The decline in enrollment at Chaffey College is "staggering," considering that the district is experiencing a rapid increase in its population, he said.

"If Chaffey College would develop a stronger public relations commitment, it is my feeling that the community interest would increase, therefore relieving any financial crunch that might occur in the future."

As a member of the board of trustees, Ketter said he would be "committed to being active, not reactive."

"The board has a deep commitment to its oversight responsibility," he noted, adding that the board should stop "rubber-stamping of proposals and programs. A board member must be aware of community concerns and seek constantly to look at all proposals from a community standpoint."

"The cost of education continues to escalate phenomenally," he said, adding that a large portion of the property tax dollar goes into education.

"A board member, as a taxpayer's representative, must guard against wasteful expenditures, he noted."

"Any additional funding proposals for a program above normal inflation will be scrutinized if I am elected. In this regard I am concerned over the proliferation of administration."

Ketter is the only Chaffey College board candidate who has been endorsed by the West End Public Employees Coalition. He is a financial investment consultant.

Merle Cox

Cox cited control of the educational and fiscal policy of the college and local control of educational offerings as the most important issues.

"The control must rest with the taxpayers and voters of the community through their elected representatives," he said.

"The taxpayer, through the elective process, can change or approve the educational and fiscal policies of the college district," he noted.

"Decisions of fiscal policy must not be delegated to someone who does no answer to the taxpayer of the district."

Because the district is large, consisting of different communities whose needs may vary, Cox said the educational goals and policies should be formulated locally to meet these needs. "These aims and goals cannot be accurately assessed or met in Sacramento they must be defined by the taxpayers of Chaffey Community College District."

Cox, an Upland dentist for 18 years, has served on the Chaffey College Board for 12 years. He has been active in Boy Scouts and the Upland Host Lions Club. He is a graduate of Chaffey College.

Sharon Jeffers

Mrs. Jeffers listed decreases in enrollment, meeting the needs and wishes of the people, and proper utilization of funds as the most important issues.

She said, "There should be a more active recruitment of the seniors in surrounding schools, with equal emphasis on academics and the trades, pointing out the benefits of each."

"There are too many minds that are passive or apathetic regarding furtherance of their education," she noted.

"Some stimulus is in order."

She is concerned that the district maintain a "facility which reflects the needs and wishes of the community which it serves."

"Statistical data can be obtained to be of help in determining the mood or requirements of the students and community," she said. "That voice must be heard and must be reflected by the actions taken and policies established by the board. There must be established lines of communication to the board, from the people, via the elected servant who represents those people."

Proper utilization of funds by a district is always an issue to the taxpayer, she noted and added, "The continued boom in housing in San Bernardino and Riverside counties may necessitate re-evaluation in apportioning the tax dollar."

Mrs. Jeffers, who holds two degrees in law with background in the sciences, has held jobs in medical, health and legal fields. She served as secretary on a school advisory committee for a boys school in Huntington Beach.

William Russell

Russell listed the top three educational issues as declining enrollment, a need for more vocational courses, and responsibility of the board to conduct "open-door" meetings.

To stimulate enrollment at Chaffey College, he said he would increase the number of vocational courses at the main campus and at campus annexes; pressure Congress to pass legislation for veterans, which he sees as the prime reason for the decline; and, as a "last resort," cut administrative and staff personnel.

Russell said the number of vocational courses should be increased because "too many unskilled young people are unemployed and should have an opportunity to learn a skilled trade. Also through automation and general cutbacks, many persons are being displaced from jobs. This program would help them to learn another skill. In this way, Chaffey would provide an even greater service to the community."

Board meetings, he said, should be held "in open-door sessions so the board can receive constructive input from the public, school administration and staff. There should be little or no need for closed-door sessions."

As a member of a labor union for the past 12 years, Russell said he has been directly and indirectly involved with contract negotiations and grievance procedures.

William Thompson

Thompson listed complacency, lack of communication, and lack of concern for administrative costs as important political issues.

"The key to the situation within the district is a board of only five members, all residents of the same city (Upland). Consequently the needs of the balance of the district are almost ignored," he said, adding that each community within the district should have an elected representative on the board. "This would ensure the needs of all would be heard and served."

Thompson supports limiting trustees to two consecutive board terms "to aid in the limitation of such problems as complacency."

As a full-time student at Chaffey College, he said he is aware of the existence of these problems and feels that service on the board is a full-time responsibility and is not for someone who is a "rubber-stamp and part-time participant."

Thompson, retired from a local milk and industrial uniform business, is a member of the Chaffey Community College Advisory Council for Community Service. He has served on the Board of Christian Education and as Sunday school teacher and college youth leader for his church.

Class in Indian arts scheduled

A class, "Appreciation of Southwest Indian Arts and Crafts," is being offered for the first time at night at Chaffey College.

The lecture course, presented by Prof. Robert Fleck will cover the subjects of Navajo weaving, historic and contemporary jewelry, basketry of California and Arizona, Pueblo pottery of Arizona and New Mexico, Hopi kachinas and Navajo sandpainting.

Prof. Fleck has studied Southwest Indians and their arts for 30 years, much of it, first hand experience. "My interest was first aroused when I took a camping trip to the Navajo and Hopi Reservations in Arizona," Fleck said.

"In those days, just following World War II, many of the roads were no more than wagon ruts. The biggest problem was avoiding sand traps."

"Since then I have been visiting the Indian country nearly every year."

Through these visits he has become acquainted with native artists and has watched them produce their work. He once helped a Hopi potter, Ellamae Tolashie, take her fired pieces from the hot ashes. "The pots were so hot we had to carry them in buckets."

He has spent hours talking with Maria Martinez, a famous potter of San Ildefonso, N.M. "She'll be 93 this year and is the most wonderful and charming person I have ever met."

Fleck brings his personal experiences and his own interest in his lectures. Besides the many slides shown in class, he has examples of Indian art to share with students. "Antique dealers will find this of great value," Fleck said.

Application for this class (Art 119) or other Chaffey College classes are being accepted now for registration on March 25, 28 or 29. First meeting of the class is from 7 to 10 p.m., April 4.

Movement class set

A new spring session of movement education classes for children has been announced by the West End YMCA. It begins Tuesday.

The course for toddlers teaches children to use their own creativity and imagination through movement by stimulating them both mentally and physically.

The course is instructed by Gail Wenz. There will be two classes for two different age groups on Tuesdays and Thursdays. From 9 to 9:30 a.m. the 3 to 5 year olds will meet. One to 3 year olds meet from 9:30 to 10 a.m.

Both classes will meet twice weekly, Tuesdays and Thursdays for seven weeks.

Supervisors delay action on outside work for doctors

By PETER WONG

Led by its two newest members, the county board of supervisors refused again Monday to decide whether county hospital doctors should be allowed to earn extra money by working extra hours treating private patients of their own.

By a 3-2 vote, the board ordered by March 28 an in-depth comparison of the net incomes of private physicians with those of the 36 full-time doctors at the county medical center in San Bernardino.

Supervisor Robert Hammock of San Bernardino, who took office in January, proposed the study. He was supported by the West End's two supervisors, Joseph Kamansky of Upland and Chairman Robert O. Townsend of Chino.

Hammock said the county medical center hadn't justified its request as presented Jan. 31.

The center's plan would allow its doctors to earn extra money — up to 30 per cent over their base salaries — by treating private patients on their own, in addition to their county duties.

Last fall, the supervisors refused to increase the doctors' salaries by the same 6.25 per cent as other county employees were granted.

Kamansky, who was sworn in Nov. 8, said he shared the view of a number of West End doctors in private practice that the plan would encourage county hospital doctors to compete with them.

Kamansky had asked for the delay in board action Jan. 31 so that he could obtain the opinions of private physicians.

Labeling the county medical center's proposal "an incentive plan," Kamansky said, "I hope they (county hospital doctors) are dedicated enough to work at their salaries. Their salaries aren't that bad."

He referred indirectly to the salary ranges of specialists on the county medical staff ($52,000 to $63,558) and general practitioners ($32,724 to $58,183).

Hammock said that based on information from a survey by a medical magazine, he believes county hospital doctors receive on the average higher hourly net pay than their counterparts in private practice on the Pacific Coast.

Two supervisors — Dennis Hansberger of Yucaipa and James L. Mayfield of Apple Valley — took issue with one of Kamansky's remarks, saying it reflected upon county hospital doctors.

Hansberger told Kamansky he had been overly influenced by the views of West End private physicians, saying, "Whatever other people told you, you're acceding to their comment."

If Kamansky doubted that Dr. J. Philip Loge, director of the county medical center, was telling the facts to the supervisors, "you ought to dismiss him," Hansberger said.

Loge had urged the supervisors to approve the new pay plan in principle, saying that without it, recruitment of new doctors by July 1 would be hampered severely.

Mayfield said, "Either you believe in the staff or you don't. I resent the implication that people in government must be second-class citizens.... I think these doctors are just as entitled to a decent wage as anyone else."

Mayfield said he didn't believe doctors' salaries would be increased unreasonably by the plan. But if the board-approved survey showed that doctors at the county medical center earn more than doctors in private practice, he said, "I'd be glad to reconsider my vote."

Both Mayfield and Hansberger said they were skeptical that doctors in private practice would disclose enough information about their net incomes to provide a valid comparison.

Citing a shortage of doctors in private practice within the county, Mayfield said, "There's plenty for everyone."

Townsend said he didn't believe the board wanted to deny the right of county hospital doctors to a decent salary. However, he added, Hammock's proposal for a comparison of doctors' incomes was aimed simply at obtaining more information.

Townsend said he was concerned in general about the sharply rising cost of health care.

Kamansky, apparently stung by criticism of his remarks about the dedication of county hospital doctors, said, "It seems like it's too bad these days, when one takes issue about an issue, it's 'personal.' If I sounded that way, Mr. Hansberger, I apologize."

County rat patrols work in West End

County rat patrols will be looking for evidence of roof rats in numerous Ontario and Upland neighborhoods during the next two and a half weeks.

The door-to-door survey, which began Friday and will continue through March 16, will determine whether the county's Environmental Health Services Department should seek federal help in eliminating a possible rat infestation.

Environmental health specialists will be looking for signs that roof rats are — or were — present in the neighborhoods they survey. Gene Zdurowski, specialist in charge of vector control services, said,

"We're not trying to catch rats," he said.

If the county teams discover evidence of a roof rat infestation rate of 25 per cent, or at one of every four homes, the county will seek federal aid in eliminating the rats, Zdurowski said.

Such a federal grant probably would be unique in that it would represent the first time federal funds have been spent to eliminate the roof rat rather than the Norway rat, he noted.

Furthermore, he said, most federal grants for rat control have been spent in blighted areas.

Timothy Mulligan, an environmental health specialist, called the project a pilot one, since the areas in Ontario and Upland to be searched for evidence of roof rats have never been surveyed.

The teams will seek evidence of roof rats in more prosperous instead of blighted areas of Ontario and Upland because it is believed roof rats thrive in the dense growth and lush vegetation which can be found around moderate- and middle-income housing, he said.

However, the teams will not survey neighborhoods in northwest Ontario, where many residents complained of a roof rat infestation in late 1974, Zdurowski said.

The median household income in those neighborhoods in 1970 was $12,000, "and that's not even close to qualifying for federal funds," he said.

However, he hopes the federal government will eventually grant funds for the elimination of roof rats in all neighborhoods, he said.

Roof rats, also known as black rats, can carry such diseases as jaundice, typhoid fever, hepatitis and bubonic plague. Their droppings can carry any of the diseases.

Rotary to give awards to outstanding youth

Rotary International District Governor Paul Lipold has announced the availability of five Rotary Foundation Educational Awards for young people in his district for study abroad during the 1978-79 academic year.

The awards cover the costs of language instruction, transportation, food, lodging and tuition.

Rotarians are looking for scholars who are well-rounded, articulate, and outgoing who can interpret their homelands as well as absorb the cultures of their country of study. Candidates must apply for the awards by March 1 through local Rotary clubs where they reside or study.

The foundation's awards fall into five categories, the largest of which is the graduate fellowships. Each graduate fellow must be 20 through 28 years old, and have earned the equivalent of a bachelor's degree.

People in the news

Service award

Carnelian PTA in Alta Loma presented the 1977 Honorary Service Award recently to Mrs. Arthur Herrick and Robert Sorenson.

Mrs. Herrick has served the school and community in several capacities, ranging from PTA committees to church activities, working in the little league and Miss Softball American and serving as advisor in many areas for all ages of boys and girls.

Sorenson, a teacher at Carnelian School has served as choir director and Sunday school teacher for his church. Sorenson is also active in Inland Guides and PTA and has served as a camp director for five years.

Honor student

Charles J. Ahearn of Upland was named to the fall semester 1976 Dean's List at Northern Arizona University.

The list consists of students with at least a 3.499 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, carrying at least 12 hours of semester work. Some 1400 students were included on the list.

Speech winner

Diana Brandes, an employee of Mechanics National Bank in Upland, recently captured top honors in a regional banking speech contest sponsored in El Monte by the California Chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

The win qualified her to participate in April competition for the chapter's state title in Fresno. The regional theme was "Economic Illiteracy for the Individual."

Top student

Music major Jean Strickland of Upland has been named to the dean's honor list for the fall semester at University of Arizona, College of Fine Arts.

To qualify, students must earn a B-plus average while carrying a full schedule of classes.

Winner

Alice Hall, sophomore student at Alta Loma High School, has been selected as one of the 10 third-prize winners in "Senior Scholastic's Pick the Winner" competition. She will receive a $25 United States Savings Bond, and sponsoring teacher, Robert L. Linzy, will receive a Scholastic "American Adventures" filmstrip kit for use in teaching U.S. history.

Hall had to make a prediction of the Electoral College votes to be gained by each presidential candidate in the November elections. State-by-state votes as well as the total electoral votes were predicted. Accompanying the prediction was an essay on "My suggestion for getting more Americans to vote."

Determination of the winners was made on the basis of the accuracy of Electoral College vote predictions state-by-state. Excellence of the essays was considered, as a tie-breaker.

Nationwide, there were one first-place, three second-place, and 10 third-place awards.

Family Leader

Meg Korones has been named Upland High School's 1976-77 General Mills Family Leader of Tomorrow. Meg won the honor by competing with other seniors in a written knowledge and attitude examination. She will receive a certificate from General Mills, sponsor of the annual educational scholarship program. She is now eligible for state and national honors.

The State Family Leader of Tomorrow, will receive a $1,500 college scholarship, with the second-ranking participant in the state receiving a $500 grant. The state winner will also earn for his or her school a 20 volume reference work, "The Annals of America," from Encyclopedia Britannica Educational Corp.

In April, the 5 winners representing every state and the District of Columbia will be the guests of General Mills on an expense-paid educational tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Virginia and Washington, D.C.

During the tour, personal observations and interviews will be conducted to select the All-American Family Leader of Tomorrow, whose scholarship will be increased to $5,000. Second, third, and fourth-place winners will receive $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships.

Meg, the daughter of Herbert and Marilyn Korones of Upland, was also recently selected as Upland High School's outstanding student in physics by the University of California, Riverside.

In the future, Meg, currently a 4.0 senior honor student, hopes to attend the University of California at Santa Cruz. There she plans to major in either physics or psychology and hopes eventually to work in research.

Ecology workers

While others traveled to Mt. Baldy to enjoy the recent snow and frolic in the "wet stuff" the members of the Alta Loma Junior High School Ecology Club were busy picking up paper, bottles cans and other miscellaneous debris found along the roadside.

Adviser Michael Shaw had his club members separate all the bottles and aluminum cans, which were put into bags and turned in for reclamation. Proceeds will be used to purchase plants and other items for the Alta Loma campus.

The ecology club has done many service projects around the school, but this is its first project outside their community. They are looking for other projects that will improve not only the community of Alta Loma, but the ecology effort in general.

Chairman

The Civil Service Commission of San Bernardino County recently elected Harry E. Reynolds as its new chairman and Ernest G. Craft as vice chairman.

Reynolds, a long-time resident of San Bernardino, was recently honored as "Mr. Democrat" of San Bernardino County. His other awards have included designation as the City of San Bernardino "Ambassador of Good Will" in 1974. He was employed as a motion picture projectionist for a number of years following his graduation from San Bernardino High School, but he is best remembered in the community as a field representative for Congressman Harry R. Sheppard. Reynolds' other memberships include Native Sons, Elks and Masons. He served as a member of the city Police Commission and is currently a member of the city Civil Service Commission.

Reynolds and his wife, Verna, reside in San Bernardino. Craft is employed by Santa Fe Railroad and served as local chairman of IBEW 73 prior to being appointed to the Civil Service Commission on Feb. 1, 1973. His other civic activities have included serving as a member of the board of directors of the Victorville Sanitation District and as a past member of the Builders' Construction Association.

Reynolds succeeds Abe E. Beltran as chairman of the commission. Beltran completed his term as chairman this month and remains a member of the commission. The new officers will serve a two-year period in their present capacity.

Flower arranging art

Classes set in Ikebana

Ikebana, the art of flower arranging, is being taught in Upland by Rose Canter, who began her formal study of the art in Japan in 1948.

According to Mrs. Canter, the origin of Japanese floral art was closely connected with religion. Buddhist priests returning from China in the 6th century, brought with them the idea of floral offerings in the temples.

Flower arrangements originally used only for religious purposes became part of court life, gradually spreading from temple to the home. In the 15th century, Mrs. Canter said, the techniques and rules were simplified and Ikebana was practiced by the common people, too.

She said there are more than 2,000 schools of Ikebana, the oldest being the classic, Ikenobo, and the Ohara-Rye and Sogetsu-Ryu being the largest of the 20th century schools.

A translation of Ikebana into English could be, Mrs. Canter said, "making flowers come alive." The discipline through which this is accomplished is a combination of technique, tradition and intuition.

The teacher said the essence of Ikebana is to use the plant materials that abound in the area. Simplicity, beauty of line, clarity of design, communicating the season, order, asymmetrical balance and harmony are characteristic of Ikebana.

Mrs. Canter's classes start with an hour of lecture - demonstration before the students create Ikebana. Then the classes conclude with critiques.

There are four classes on Thursdays at 9 a.m. and noon and later Thursdays at 12:30 and 3. These classes are in the current series and there is room for additional students.

All classes are held in the Magnolia Recreation Center at the corner of San Antonio Avenue and 15th Street, Upland. The sessions are co-sponsored by Chaffey College Community Education program and the Upland Recreation Department. No fee is asked.

The next series of classes will begin April 14 and conclude on June 2. These will be held at 9 a.m. and noon on Thursdays at the Magnolia Recreation Center.

Mrs. Canter is an accredited teacher from Sogetsu-Ryu and holds the degree of jonin-somu.

She began her formal study of Ikebana when she lived in Japan and she has returned every few years for continued study and to keep abreast with the trends in Ikebana.

Mrs. Canter is teaching classes as well as doing flower arrangements for the opening of exhibits at Lang Gallery at Scripps College, Claremont, and arrangements in the sanctuary of Temple Beth Israel for the sabbath, high holy days and for bar mitzvah. She has been doing Ikebana for exhibits at the Pacificulture Asian Museum in Pasadena and for special events at Pilgrim Place, Claremont. She gives programs for the community and participates in local, national and international exhibits.

"I have found beauty in everyday living through Ikebana," Mrs. Canter said.

At this time, plum blossoms are open and this tree is regarded with special fondness by the Japanese and by flower arrangers throughout the world. While the plum blossoms remain available, Mrs. Canter will teach arranging of the blossoms.

She said the plum is the earliest to bloom in the spring and is often referred to as the "eldest brother of the hundred flowers."

The season of the plum tree is made musical with the liquid note of the so-called Japanese nightingale, which for this reason is inseparably associated with the plum tree in the different arts, Mrs. Canter said.

She continued by saying in later times, plum trees were planted in large numbers near the imperial capitals forming pleasure resorts for the women of the court.

"The plum tree grows easily in our area," Mrs. Canter said, "and its beauty is presently being enjoyed. Flower arrangers wait the whole year for the arrival of the plum and arrangements of plum and camellia and magnolia flora are favorites."

The plum, combined with evergreen pine and bamboo, forms a triad called sho-chiku-bai, which is supposed to be expressive of enduring happiness, the arranger said. She said there are 60 different species of plum in Japan. The single blossom of white or greenish-white color of small size is held in high esteem. In Japan, she reported, there are areas noted for their plum trees, and thousands of visitors come during the plum season to view the beauty of the blossoms and enjoy the fragrance.

The flowering plum is the national flower of Japan. The five petals are taken to represent the five "clans" — Chinese, Manchus, Moslems, Mongols and Tibetans. White plum blossoms suggest purity of character and are used as an emblem of the Spirit of Womanhood. It is an emblem of hardihood, Mrs. Canter continued, and a gnarled blossoming plum branch may suggest vitality in old age.

Plum is one of the "four gentlemen of Japan" — plum, bamboo, chrysanthemum and orchid.

The school in which Mrs. Canter learned her art — Sogetsu-Ryu of Japan — is the largest of the 20th century schools. It embodies the best from the past and encourages creativity, Mrs. Canter said. The designs are simple and fit easily into our way of living, she said.

The designs, techniques and theory of Sogetsu-Ryu will be taught in Mrs. Canter's classes. The oldest method of arranging is Nagebana. Both will be highlighted. Students will learn how to select, trim, bend and shape the plant materials used. The classes are geared to the needs of the beginner, but advanced students are encouraged to join the classes.

FLOWERS — Ready to clip the Korean Shoebuton bush are Rose Canter (left) and Clara Hilliard. Mrs. Canter will use the blooms in a flower arrangement made in Ikebana fashion. Mrs. Canter teaches a class in Ikebana every Thursday at the Magnolia Recreation Center in Upland. The classes are at 9 a.m., noon, 12:30 and 3 p.m. These classes are open for students even though the sessions have been running a few weeks. Mrs. Canter will start a new set of two classes starting April 14 and continuing on Thursdays at 9 a.m. and noon until June 2.

Chaffey sets writing class

An evening class designed to help budding authors "bloom" will be offered by Chaffey College in the spring quarter.

Reading and Writing Non-Fiction (English 106) is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. to 12:20 a.m. on Wednesdays, beginning April 6.

Teaching the four-unit course will be Myron Roberts, author of books and magazine articles.

The course deals with the practical problems faced by the free-lance writer, stressing the techniques of marketing, negotiating and selling in today's highly competitive market.

Roberts coauthored "The Begatting of a President," which earned broad acceptance both as a paperback book and as a record album narrated by Orson Welles.

The Chaffey professor edited "The Horse World Catalog," slated for publication in April by J.B. Lippincott. He is currently working on "The Pursuit of Happiness," a study of American culture and politics to be published in January 1978 by MacMillan.

World Day of Prayer will be celebrated 10 a.m. Friday by the Bonita Unit of Church Women United at Our Lady of Assumption, Claremont.

Church Women United in thousands of local communities across the nation will join in this annual chain of prayer that links the first voice at dawn in the tropical islands of the Pacific with millions of others in 170 countries and islands.

By nightfall, the day's message, "Love in Action," will have followed the sun's arc until the last prayers are said in units of Church Women United in the islands off the coast of Alaska.

This year's worship service, prepared by the women in German Democratic Republic, reflects their hope that all will "strive together to find ways — familiar and new ways" — "Love in Action."

School of Theology gets library grant

The James Irvine Foundation of San Francisco and Newport Beach has awarded $50,000 to the School of Theology at Claremont for library support. It is the school's first grant from this foundation.

The School of Theology library was built in 1968 and retains approximately 100,000 volumes in its own stacks, with immediate access to an additional 250,000 through the Western Theological Library Association.

The grant, which reduces the library's mortgage, exerts a multi-plier effect. Funds formerly devoted to interest payments will now underwrite book acquisitions.

The School of Theology at Claremont is the oldest professional seminary in the Pacific Southwest, having been founded in 1885. Its Claremont years began in 1957. At present it is educating 314 future ministers from 21 states and 13 countries representing 29 denominations.

The James Irvine Foundation was established by James Irvine, Jr. in 1937. The foundation's grants are generally made to education, medicine and health, youth programs, community services, and cultural projects and are restricted to California.

People meet people in TV's 'Come Walk the World'

Television viewers across the United States each week meet people from throughout the world in "Come Walk the World," a new TV series which airs 8:30-9 p.m. Sundays on Channel 5.

Sponsored by World Vision International, the program is hosted by Dr. Stan Mooneyham, president of the Christian humanitarian organization.

"Many Americans live in a world of people they have never truly known," commented a WVI spokesperson. "They are people who live in such familiar places as Hong Kong, Manila and Rio, and in strange places like Ouagadougou, Abijan and Surabaja. They are people through whom God is working, people who share God's love in ways that range from chicken raising in Gambia to a prison ministry from 9,000 men in the Philippines."

The series focuses on people — like Reginald and Catherine Hamlin, Australian doctors who live in one of the world's most rugged countries, Ethiopia. Eighteen years ago they went to Ethiopia to start a school of midwifery. "They expected to stay only two or three years, but their compassion has kept them there to help thousands of women," the spokesperson noted.

One segment of the program introduces Dr. Sam Kamaleson, former pastor of a large church in India, who now directs World Vision's Pastors' Conference ministry. It shows him — and others — encouraging and teaching church leaders from remote jungle tribes in Indonesia. Some of the pastors traveled several days by boat to attend the conference; for many it was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to receive Bible training and to fellowship with other pastors.

"Another person on the program is Moira Lee, a petite Chinese girl in West Kalimantan, Indonesia," the spokesperson said.

Moira lives in Kalimas, a jungle settlement of 100 Chinese families who were refugees of a Dyak tribal uprising. There are many needs there, both physical and spiritual. More than 50 per cent of the people in West Kalimantan are infected with tuberculosis, and between 80 and 90 per cent suffer from malaria. The people believe in Confucianism and spirit worship. Moira began a Sunday school for the children but the mothers wanted a worship service too, so now there is also a Sunday service for adults."

"Come Walk the World" will give a broader view of the globe to people who have never heard of Ouagadougou (in Upper Volta), or who think that perhaps Niteroi is a French vegetable, instead of a Brazilian, the spokesperson noted.

"It will show Americans the tragedy of Bangladesh through the sightless eyes of an 8-year-old boy named Basudeb. From Seoul, Dr. Billy Kim will share how God's spirit has been invading the hearts and ranks of the Korean Army. In the remote hill country of northern Thailand, tribal Christians will show how God is working near the borders of Burma, China and Laos."

Claremont Travel Series

Mexico featured in film

"Mexico — Wonderful Mexico", fifth in a series of presentations by the Claremont Travel Film Series, will be shown at 2 and 8 p.m. Friday, March 4, in Garrison Theater, Claremont.

Narrator for the picture will be Thayer Soule, who studied for 20 years under Burton Holmes, a leader in travel photography.

Among the scenes brought to the viewer of the film are the National Museum of Anthropology, where the achievements of the Pre-Columbian civilizations lay; La Venta, in Tabasco state, where huge stone heads of the Olmecs show Oriental and Negroid influences.

At Chichen Itza, a Mayan ceremonial center in Yucatan, the film shows the Temple of the Warriors, Ball Court, Sacred Well of Sacrifice and the Observatory. Then Uxmal, with its and the Quadrangle abandoned Palace of the Governor, and finally the Montejo House, where the sixteenth generation of the Conquistador's family lives today.

The viewer then travels to the tropic island of Cozumel, which boasts fine skin diving, palm-lined beaches and limpid lagoons, and then Acapulco, where activity has moved from the inner bay to the long beach, which looks like Waikiki.

In Mexico City, the Little Horse, with its forgotten rider, stands on the Paseo de la Reforma, one of the world's great boulevards. The subway lives up to its reputation for speed and huge crowds. After dark the city offers special pleasures. Jai Alai is one of the fastest games in the world. The Ballet Folklorico performs several times a week. The Zocalo blazes with light and Chapultepec has one of the world's most spectacular fountains.

The second part of the film shows Old Mexico — a rodeo at Rancho del Charro, an amateur bullfight, the Pyramids of Teotihuacan, Popocatepetl and Ixtaccihuatl, the great volcanoes.

By superhighway, the film transports the audience to Puebla, which now has a huge Volkswagen plant in addition to its famed houses of tile. Perched high in the mountains is Taxco, which, by government order, remains unchanged.

Guadalajara, Mexico's second city, has a park filled with topiary art. In nearby Puerto Vallarta, polo is played on burros. Stops are made at sunny Mazatlan, crossing the Sea of Cortez to La Paz. On the new Baja Road, a weird desert wonderland of mountains, cactus, blue bays, and deserted beaches are seen.

The film shows Uruapan, famed for its lacquer, and Patzcuaro, with its old square and mirror-like lake. Oaxaca's Santo Domingo Church is one of Mexico's oldest. At the end of the valley is the giant tree of Tule, and Mitla, with its unique stone tapestry.

Finally, the viewer is taken to the high, cool mountains near the border of Guatemala. Center for the region is San Cristobal de Las Casas, where every day is market day. Life has changed far less here than in the rest of Mexico.

The Claremont Travel Film Series is a benefit project for the development fund of Pomona College.

Chairman of the series is Mrs. Milo Tigner, assisted by Mrs. Wesley Leighton, ticket sales; Mrs. Roy Miller, treasurer, and Esther Ballew and Mmes. Charles Gill, Earle Jones, Jackson Neibrugge and Stuart Wheeler.

Single tickets for the Mexico film may be purchased at the Garrison Theater box office, 10th Street and Dartmouth Avenue.

Seeking exchange students

The Youth Exchange Service (YES), a non-profit, U.S. State Department approved organization, is seeking exchange students to go live in other countries. American youth, 15 to 19-years-old, who qualify, are eligible to live with a host family for the summer or for one or two school semesters beginning September, 1977.

Exchange students pay for round-trip tickets, an administrative fee and take their own spending money. YES supplies medical coverage and the host family provides free room and board.

YES is dedicated to fostering greater understanding between the U.S.A. and other countries by learning a different way of life in another country.

Youths who would like to be exchange students in South or Central America or Mexico, should apply now for the summer program or the next school year programs.

For further information write: YES International, P.O. Box 4020, San Clemente, CA. 92672 or phone (714) 492-7907.

The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

The Engineer may, without Board approval, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period of advertising for bids, for the purpose of: (a) revising prevailing wage scales, or (b) clarifying or correcting Special Provisions, Plans or Bid Proposal; provided that any such addenda do not change the original scope and intent of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents will be notified and furnished copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery during the period of advertising.

The Bid Proposal must be submitted on the forms included in the bidder's package of Plans and Specifications which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 for the purchase price of $7.08 plus sales tax per set, not refundable. The name, address and phone number of the prospective bidder must be left at the office of the Engineer. Plans and Specifications are purchased which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) per cent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal is accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications.

Surety bonds shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel. Surety bond shall be signed by a guaranty or surety company listed in the latest issue of the U.S. Treasury Circular 570.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

The County hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this advertisement, minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, religion, sex or national origin in consideration for an award.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the State of California has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

Furthermore, minimum wage rates for this project as predetermined by the Secretary of Labor (Federal) are set forth in the Special Provisions.

If there is a difference in the minimum wage rates predetermined by the Secretary of Labor and the applicable prevailing wage rates per California Labor Code for similar classifications of labor, the Contractor and his subcontractors shall pay not less than the highest wage rate.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTION TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

PUBLIC NOTICE

ORDINANCE NO. 1126
AN INTERIM URGENT ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF UPLAND, CALIFORNIA, ENACTED PURSUANT TO THE
SAID CITY'S POLICE POWER
AND SECTION 65858 OF THE
CALIFORNIA GOVERNMENT
CODE WHICH RELATES TO PROHIBITING CERTAIN USES OF PROPERTY IN THE CITY OF UPLAND, CALIFORNIA, AND SUSPENDING THE FILING OF TENTATIVE TRACT
APPLICATIONS AND MODIFICATIONS FOR EXISTING USES OF LAND.

The City Council of the City of Upland does hereby resolve as follows:

SECTION 1. It is hereby found and determined that there has been an inordinate request for subdivision of lands in the City of Upland and housing development which is unprecedented in the City.

It is further found that the extremely rapid housing development has underscored the shortcomings of the General Plan elements which were adopted by reference from the San Bernardino County General Plan and that there is a need for updating these elements so that the City can respond to the urgent demand for new housing in this vicinity without diminishing the quality of life for established residents.

SECTION 2. It is further found and determined that the City may very well be in need of a phasing program as an integral part of the proposed general plan wherein the phasing program could be designed to achieve maximum effective utilization of available land in light of local, regional, state and federal needs. The program might establish the time and sequence of residential development by encouraging growth around the immediately existing communities and thus avoiding wasteful and inefficient urban sprawl. In this phasing program the City should refine its capital budget and capital improvement programs which will provide for extension of public facilities and services, including transportation, water, sewerage, schools, recreation, drainage, police and fire, and other public amenities so as to insure the efficient, orderly and economic development of the City.

SECTION 3. The area to be restudied is more particularly described as that area of the City of Upland:

SECTION 4. Notwithstanding any provision contained in any ordinance in the City of Upland to the contrary, no new applications of the hereinafter described material shall be accepted, received or processed by the City in the area set forth above until such time as said mandatory elements of the General Plan are restudied and adopted in final form by the City Council of the City of Upland and all zoning ordinances are consistent therewith:

a. tentative subdivision tract maps for all residential development;

b. all applications for planned residential development and planned unit development;

c. all applications for multi-family development;

d. all site plan reviews for multi-family residential.

SECTION 5. Any person aggrieved by the failure of the City of Upland to accept, receive or process new applications of the type set forth in Section 4 hereinafter may apply in writing for an exemption from the provisions thereof to the Clerk of the City of Upland. Such application shall set forth fully the basis for the applicant's requested release and, upon receipt thereof, the Clerk shall set a time and place for hearing on the matter by the City Council. At such hearing, the Council may, upon showing of hardship not generally applicable to other affected parties, by resolution exempt such applicant from the provision of Section 4 hereof.

SECTION 6. In no event shall this interim ordinance have any force or effect for more than 180 days from the date of its adoption unless the effect of the ordinance is extended in pursuance to the Government Code of the State of California and in pursuance to the laws of this City.

SECTION 7. The provisions of the Upland Municipal Code in conflict herewith and any other ordinance in conflict herewith as the same might apply to the provisions of this ordinance shall be suspended during the term of this ordinance.

SECTION 8. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase or portion of this ordinance is for any reason held to be invalid or unconstitutional by the decision of any court of competent jurisdiction, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance. The Council hereby declares that it would have adopted this ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase, or portion thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, phrases, or portions be declared invalid or unconstitutional, then all other provisions thereof shall remain valid and enforceable.

SECTION 9. This Ordinance is urgently required and is necessary for the preservation of public health, safety and general welfare. More specifically, as a matter of fact, it is found and determined that the unprecedented and rapidly growing housing development may materially depreciate and diminish the quality of life in this City for the established residents and may be materially detrimental to the health, safety and welfare of the single family residents unless the General Plan is updated so that the City can respond to the urgent demand for new housing.

SECTION 10. The Mayor shall sign this ordinance and the City Clerk shall attest to the same and this ordinance shall be effective immediately as an emergency ordinance and the City Clerk shall cause the same to be published within fifteen (15) days after its passage, at least once in the Upland News.

Health Tips

Cryptorchidism not rare

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

When the male fetus is forming in the uterus, the testes develop behind the abdominal cavity and in the seventh month of pregnancy begin their descent into the scrotum. This process is normally complete by birth but occasionally does not become complete until six to nine months after birth. When this process is incomplete one has the condition known as cryptorchidism or undescended testes.

Cryptorchidism is one of the most common congenital abnormalities affecting males. It is estimated that undescended testes occurs in one out of every 200 - 500 males.

In the infant this problem can usually be readily recognized by merely feeling the scrotum or sac to determine whether or not both of the testicles are present. In the older child this is sometimes more difficult to detect with certainty because normal testes will occasionally retract up into the groin, a phenomenon known as testicular retractility or "yo-yo" testes.

The testes are male sex organs which serve two functions. They produce the male sex hormone and they produce spermatozoa, the cells that result in fertilization.

If testes remain undescended certain irreversible changes occur between the age of 6 years and the completion of puberty. The changes destroy the ability of the testicle to produce sperm but do not affect its hormonal functions. For this reason, the preferred method of treatment for undescended testes is an operation in which the testes are surgically placed in the scrotum. It is currently recommended that the surgical procedure be performed between ages 2 and 6 years in the hope that irreversible changes can be avoided.

Another reason for surgical correction is that approximately 90 per cent of males with an undescended testicle also have a hernia on the affected side which will require surgery. If this is the case, the testicle might just as well be brought down at the same time.

The exact cause for this congenital abnormality is not well understood and is variable in different cases. Occasionally the testicle either does not develop or develops poorly. This is a situation which cannot be determined preoperatively, but for which there obviously is no surgical solution.

In other instances the reason for testicular non-descent is a hormonal abnormality. In these cases hormonal treatment may be advised, either as a diagnostic or a therapeutic procedure.

The usual diagnostic procedure is the administration of a hormone called chorionic gonadotropin which causes the testes to produce testosterone, the male hormone. This stimulates the onset of puberty for the purpose of determining whether or not the testes will descend with a hormonal stimulus. If the testes descend under such circumstances, no operation is necessary.

Frequently the cause of on-descent is an obstruction in the normal pathway of descent or some other problem which has caused the testicle to go astray. These problems are surgical, and hormonal treatment will not help.

There are other rarer causes for undescended testes.

The male who has an undescended testicle has a greater chance of developing a testicular malignancy. It is not known whether or not early operation will prevent these malignant changes, but early operation does place the testicle in a position where the development of malignancy can be detected at an earlier stage.

For the male with an undescended testicle after puberty, it is best that the testicle be removed because, at that time, it is serving no function with regard to sperm production but is a definite liability with regard to potential malignancy.

Cryptorchidism is a problem that, when diagnosed, should have prompt attention. It usually can be corrected. Without treatment, however, there can be lasting consequences.

Cooling cycles to save electricity

If electric air conditioners cycled on and off every 15 minutes during hot weather, would people inside suffer any real discomfort? Would electricity demand be reduced significantly?

These and other questions are under review by the Southern California Edison Co. as part of an experimental program conducted in the homes of several hundred volunteers.

The study is part of an overall load management program of the Edison Co., which is aimed at reducing the need for new generating plants to provide peak demand electricity.

"Within the 50,000 square mile area served by Edison, many thousands of homes have electric air conditioners," according to R.W. Bond, Edison city/area manager.

"If external controls could be installed to cycle air conditioners on and off, so the total number operating at any one time was reduced, requirements for electricity during periods of peak usage, between noon and early evening, might be lowered. As a result, less new generating capacity might be needed to supply power needs in summer months, when demand is highest," Bond said.

Outside temperature controls were installed at homes picked at random within five major temperature zones in the SCE service area, which includes coastal, inland, mountain and desert regions.

When outside temperatures reached a preset point, which was calculated to be the average noontime temperature on the hotter days, the controls took over and automatically cycled the coolers which were operating, so they were on 15 minutes, then off 15 minutes.

Interviews with the families which had the devices will be evaluated to determine whether the on-off cycling controls would be accepted by home owners on a wide scale and whether the cost would be acceptable.

Air gulping, causes gas

Whether you're aware of it or not, you are swallowing air constantly. Everyone swallows some air while eating and drinking. However, some people swallow more than others and air-entrapping habits of gum chewing, smoking, talking, and food gulping are known to produce excess gas accumulations in certain individuals.

Air swallowing is referred to by the medical profession as "aerophagia". It can be a nervous habit and may contribute to painful gastrointestinal gas. Some gas may also accumulate by diffusion from the bloodstream and from decomposition of food residues. Individual reactions vary, but many persons know that for them certain foods "cause gas" or "don't set well". Onions, cooked cabbage, raw fruits, radishes, baked beans, cucumbers, milk, cauliflower, chocolate, coffee, bran and other fibrous foods, peanuts and eggs are frequent offenders.

Differences in individual reactions may arise from allergic sensitivities to specific food elements or from sluggish function of digestive enzymes. There is some evidence that diminished output of these enzymes helps cause gas distress, particularly in older patients.

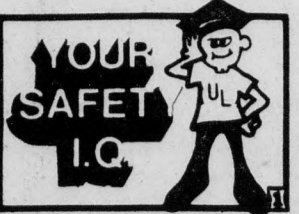

Entrapped gastrointestinal gas can produce a wide range of symptoms, from abdominal distention to localized pain. Some, such as intestinal gurgling noises or rumblings ("borborygmi"), are more embarrassing than serious.

Treatment is feasible in most cases of intestinal gas distress. Often a carbonated drink such as ginger ale is taken to trigger a burp and relieve discomfort due to gas pressure. According to physicians, however, this may only tend to increase the volume of gas in the system. Antacids are a frequent home remedy — but according to one researcher, the antacids have little effect on gas.

A tablet combining simethicone and digestive enzymes, known as Phazyme, is recommended by many doctors. It reduces excessive gas formation while it eliminates foam consisting of tiny bubbles of gas. There have been numbers of clinical studies involving the use of simethicone, and specifically Phazyme tablets, which have demonstrated effectiveness. The tablets do not require a prescription.

Old curtain use

Sew bibs for baby or aprons for young "artists" from an old plastic shower curtain. Binding around the edges and ribbon for ties add a decorative touch. The recycled garments can be wiped clean with a sudsy sponge or machine washed. Remember, plastic articles should only be dried on the AIR setting of an automatic dryer.

1. Identify the room (or rooms) where most home fires start:
A. Living Room
B. Kitchen
C. Den
D. Family Room
E. Bedroom
F. Basement
2. Portable electric air heaters can be safely operated behind curtains, drapes, wall hangings, towels, etc.
☐ True ☐ False

ANSWERS
Provided as a public safety service by Underwriters Laboratories.
Mark
1. A, C, and D. One-third of all home fires start in the living room, den, and family room — most of them caused by a forgotten cigarette or dropped ashtray.
2. FALSE. Such operation greatly reduces the room heating efficiency of the heater. Hanging material for safety's sake makes your portable air heater bears the UL listing.

Oriental influence in Wok cooking

ORIENTAL SAUCE — By varying the meat and vegetables each time you cook Chinese, you can create a variety of dishes with this Oriental Sauce Mix. The sauce contains corn syrup, soy sauce and other readily available ingredients.

With the current Oriental influence in the kitchen, the familiar refrain, "What's cooking?" could be changed to "Wok's cooking?" And, even if you don't own a wok, a large, round pan with a curved bottom that is used by many Chinese cooks, it's easy to create quick stir-fry dishes in a skillet.

To save time, many experienced Chinese cooks stir together standard sauce ingredients like soy sauce, corn starch and sherry and then store the mixture in a tightly sealed jar in the refrigerator.

Using the mix for the marinade as well as the sauce, it takes only a short time to concoct a stir-fry dish. While the meat is marinating, the vegetables can be prepared. Following the Chinese technique, cut them into uniform sizes and shapes for even cooking. Once the meat and vegetables are ready, it's a matter of minutes until dinner is served.

The Oriental sauce mix recipe was developed in the Karo corn syrup kitchens, corn syrup being used to impart a sweetness as well as a smoothness to the sauce. The mix is sufficient for cooking up three Chinese dishes. The main course dishes will serve two, or, when the Chinese tradition is followed and there is more than one main dish, they will serve four.

Heat remaining 2 tablespoons of the oil in skillet. Add beef and cook, stirring constantly, 3 minutes or until beef is

Vitamin E news from panel

Although vitamin E has been proven to be of value in treating several highly specific medical problems, "the likelihood of actual deficiencies in man is very low," according to a new Scientific Status Summary released by the Institute of Food Technologists' Expert Panel on Food Safety and Nutrition.

Vitamin E occurs in many common foods which humans consume in adequate amounts, and is accumulated in the body for later use, according to Dr. Arthur N. Prater, consultant on food technology, IFT Regional Communicator for Southern California.

data exists to substantiate such claims."

Among the medical conditions for which proven benefits of vitamin E therapy exist, according to the Expert Panel, are hemolytic anemia in premature infants (caused by poor transfer of vitamin E from mother to fetus), poor absorption of fats and oils from the diet (usually found in patients with cystic fibrosis, liver cirrhosis or other similar problems), or in intermittent claudication, a condition leading to calf-pain when walking.

Hot Fish-wiches win converts with flavor

If your family has someone who puts up a little fuss when you've planned on serving fish, prepare this new recipe for Baked Fish-Wich.

Created in test kitchens of Rochester, N.Y., this imaginative new dish has a lively flavor even confirmed fish-haters will enjoy.

Baked Fish-Wich is also easy to prepare, economical, and hearty, just the dish to serve on a cool autumn night. A zippy flavor is achieved with a sauce you make with prepared yellow mustard, and a cheese-topping adds an extra touch.

A nice side dish is Pear and Cabbage Slaw. Oil and vinegar seasoned with Worcestershire sauce is a near perfect dressing.

To complete your meal, serve buttered carrots, frosted cupcakes, and milk or coffee.

Baked Fish-wich
8 slices white bread, cut in half
1 1/2 pounds fish fillets
Salt and pepper
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1/4 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons prepared yellow mustard
6 slices process American cheese

Paprika
Arrange half the bread in greased shallow 2-quart baking pan. Place fish on bread; season with salt and pepper. Top with remaining bread. Lightly beat together eggs, milk, mayonnaise, and mustard; pour over bread. Arrange cheese on top and sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 325 degrees for 40 to 50 minutes, until knife inserted in center comes out clean. 6 servings.

Pear and Cabbage Slaw

1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons oil
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
6 cups shredded or chopped red or green cabbage
2 fresh pears or 4 canned pear halves, cut into cubes.
In salad bowl, stir together sugar, oil, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, and salt. Add cabbage; toss until well coated. Just before serving, add pears and toss lightly. 6 servings.

Thus, true deficiency diseases comparable to scurvy (from deficiencies of vitamin C), and beri-beri (from deficiencies of vitamin B1 (thiamin), are highly unlikely.

However, many proponents of vitamin E therapy recommend its use in massive amounts essentially as a drug, rather than as a vitamin. As to the possible benefits of such "megadose" treatment, the IFT Summary states that "little conclusive clinical

The facts of life.

Swimming's a barrel of fun. It can also be a barrel of danger, if you don't know the fundamentals—if you don't know how to take care of yourself in the water.

That's why Red Cross swimming, lifesaving and water safety courses are offered all over the country.

We want everybody—even little kids—to know The Facts of Life in the water. Since we began to teach swimming, we've issued a grand total of 55,216,000 swimming certificates. Millions upon millions of people have learned to swim with us. Or learned to swim better.

If you've ever wondered where Red Cross money goes, consider just this one fact: nearly every lifeguard serving in America is Red Cross trained and accredited.

Isn't Red Cross a good idea? Belong.

A Woman Ought to Know

Housewives' benefits

Dear Anita,
I am a college student, married, with two children. If I died my wife and family could not live on my insurance and social security. Housewives need rights, too. Are there any benefits available to them?
J.S., Huntington Beach

Dear J.S.:
The California Commission of the Status of Women certainly agrees that housewives deserve benefits for the very important job they perform in our society. One of the major recommendations of the International Women's Year World Plan of Action calls for a commitment at all levels of government to recognize the economic value of women's work in the home.

Some legislation has been passed, and more is being considered, to reward the housewife for her contributions. Recent federal legislation, Public Law 94-455 (Tax Reform Act 1976) includes a provision for housewives' pensions. Effective this year, a worker who has no other pension plan can set aside up to $1,500 a year in an individual retirement account. That money is not taxed until it is withdrawn. The contribution could be raised to $1,750 a year if it is used for a pension for a homemaker.

The pension plan is a small step to help homemakers, but it is important since it makes it public policy that the contribution of homemakers is economically and socially valuable. Probably the provision will be broadened in the future.

You can help protect the future of your wife and children by expressing your concern to your state and congressional representatives.

The California Commission considers rewarding, rather than penalizing, women who take on the role of homemaker a high priority. It is good to hear that you, too, are concerned.

Anita Miller
Dear Anita:

I'm a homemaker. I have stayed at home and done my job for 15 years. With four lively children, I've put in my share of overtime. Yet, while my husband will receive a pension when he retires, I will have only Social Security benefits. Shouldn't the work of housewives be recognized as legitimate and equally deserving of eventual security?

A.C., San Leandro
Dear A.C.:

As a matter of fact, this idea is meeting with considerable acceptance. For the first time, housewives can qualify for a pension by staying at home and doing their job. A new retirement plan, intended primarily to benefit housewives, went into effect in January, 1977. Part of the Tax Reform Act, it is designed to relieve some of the financial burdens of older women and to recognize their past contributions to the nation's economy and social structure.

This first step is small, but important because it legitimizes housework as a pensionable occupation. Past law allowed a worker who has no pension to set aside up to $1,500 a year in an individual retirement account. Now, under the new law, this fund can be raised to $1,750 — provided the extra money goes into a pension fund for a spouse (usually a housewife) who does not work outside the home.

This individual pension would be available in addition to Social Security benefits. For women such as a pension, though small, would be an important improvement. A Senate Task Force report has stated that one out of three women "on their own" exist on income below the poverty level. The income of many of these women is only a Social Security payment.

In mid-1975 the average monthly Social Security payment to women was a pitiful pittance — $181 per month.

So, by all means, take advantage of the new pension plan for housewives — it is a beginning to alleviate some of the poverty suffered by elderly women.

Send questions to: Anita Miller, Chairperson California Commission on the Status of Women 926 J. St., Room 1003 Sacramento, CA 95814

you weren't paid — so society doesn't recognize your contribution as a bona fide occupation. One of the interesting findings of the Displaced Homemakers Center in Oakland is that women who have, all their lives, been "only housewives" can, at 50 and older, begin profitable businesses. They are also exceptionally capable employees, particularly in the helping professions where skilled care is badly needed.

Dear K.D.:
Lack skills: Let's look at what you've been doing. You have planned, budgeted, organized, supervised and administered functions of a household supporting five people.

In assuming total care of three dependent children over a period of several years each, you have acted as nurse, physician and teacher. In planning nutritional diets, keeping house facilities sanitary, giving physical and emotional health care, you have acted equivalently as a dietitian, mid-level manager, supervisor and social worker.

You have performed successfully many of the tasks of management. Your diffidence is really founded on the unfortunate fact that

As industry and government begin to see more women like you in responsible positions, perhaps the time will come when it will be easier to break into these professions. In the meantime, spell out clearly and strongly the administrative and management aspects of your background on your resume. Sooner or later a potential employer should recognize your qualifications for a good job.

Medicare review team appointed

A program review team has been appointed in California as a step to curb abuse of Medicare by providers of health services. John A. McConachie, Social Security administration regional commissioner has announced.

As provided by law and HEW regulation, the program review team is composed of four physicians, three health care professionals other than physicians and two consumer representatives.

The team will review proposals to terminate Medicare payments to those hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, home health agencies, physicians, suppliers of medical equipment and other providers who abuse the program by providing excessive, harmful or inferior health services, or by overcharging.

Final decisions on these penalties will be made by HEW with the concurrence of the program review team. Where a physician or other provider of services misrepresents the services offered, HEW can terminate the provider from Medicare participation without the involvement of a program review team.

The program review team in California, appointed by HEW Secretary David Mathews, was nominated after consultation with insurance organizations that serve as Medicare intermediaries and carriers, with state and local professional societies and with consumer representatives. The normal term of office is two years, but some of the members were appointed to one-year terms to provide continuity in the future.

California is one of six states across the country in which the first program review teams were appointed. The other five are Florida, Kansas, Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania.

In making the announcement, Regional Commissioner McConachie emphasized that fraud and abuse play a small part in the total operation of the Medicare program.

Attendance increases at national parks in state

California's 19 national parks attracted a record 15 1/2 million visitors in 1976. The total represents an 11 per cent increase in travel over 1975, according to Howard H. Chapman, western regional director of the National Park Service.

Yosemite again topped all other national parks in California with 2,753,150 visits, an increase of 5 per cent over 1975. Five other national parks in California each hosted more than a million visitors — Cabrillo National Monument, Point Reyes National Seashore, Golden Gate and Whiskeytown national recreation areas, and Kings Canyon and Sequoia national parks.

Visits last year to the 36 national parks in the four-state Western Region (Arizona, California, Hawaii and Nevada) reached a new record high of 31,127,600 — a 10 per cent increase.

Visitation figures for National Parks of California, with the percentage change in parenthesis, follow: Cabrillo National Monument, 1,515,346 (plus 5); Channel Islands National Monument, 1,061,111 (plus 17); Death Valley National Monument, 606,658 (plus 7); Devils Postpile National Monument, 84,832 (minus 3); Fort Point National Historic Site, 747,323 (plus 10); Golden Gate National Recreation Area, 1,457,742 (plus 22); John Muir National Historic Site, 30,677 (plus 12); Joshua Tree National Monument, 731,822 (plus 32); Kings Canyon National Park, 1,133,408 (plus nine); Lassen Volcanic National Park, 461,419 (plus 4); Lava Beds National Monument, 148,763 (plus 9); Muir Woods National Monument, 964,247 (minus 2); Pinnacles National Monument, 156,857 (minus 3); Point Reyes National Seashore, 1,637,416 (plus 10); Redwood National Park, 442,330 (plus 13); Sequoia National Park, 1,041,489 (plus 9); Whiskeytown National Recreation Area, 1,632,112 (plus 28) and Yosemite National Park, 2,753,152 (plus 5).

Use peel-off return label

Taxpayers can receive their refunds faster by using the peel-off label attached to the tax package mailed out by the Internal Revenue Service.

The label, which appears on the cover of the package, lists name, address, and Social Security number. Incorrect addresses and Social Security numbers can delay refunds. The IRS emphasized that if any information on the label is incorrect, the taxpayer should make corrections right on the label.

Married taxpayers filing a joint return should check to see that two Social Security numbers appear on the label. If only one Social Security number is shown, the other spouse's number should be entered on the appropriate line.

A taxpayer can also insure a faster refund by mailing the return in the coded envelope also included with the tax package.

Take one step at a time

Running helps figure and fitness

Run — don't walk — toward your nearest exit!

So advises the current issue of Family Circle, which recommends running as one of the fastest ways to physical fitness and figure flattery, if you can only remember to take one step at a time.

Some important points to bear in mind, according to the article, before you take off a breakneck speed:

Stock up on a pair of general-purpose running or training shoes. They're sturdier and have better support than regular tennis shoes, and are available at chain, sporting-good or department stores.

Clothes should be loose — so nothing binds or chafes you — and absorbent: You'll be sweating a lot. The best all-around fabric, not surprisingly, is cotton. During winter, choose layers — not bulk — for warmth.

For beginners, an indoor track is best. You won't have to worry about dogs, potholes, cars, uneven surfaces or the weather. If you're looking for scenic variety, of course, and the inspiration of open sky and air, opt for the wide outdoors.

Never run after eating. You should wait at least two hours for food to digest, although you may drink as much water beforehand as you like.

Run flat-footed — never on your toes or the ball of your feet. If one part of your foot must touch the ground first, it should be the heel. Remember, too, to relax, keeping your body as straight as possible, your legs lifted high, your arms bent so the forearms are parallel to the ground. Make your gait as smooth as possible — beware of bounding.

Always warm up before running. Your body can't start working at maximum efficiency without any preparation, and sometimes abrupt vigorous exercise can even be dangerous.
